

RLF Writing Fellow– Vitali Vitaliev

Enhance your freedom of expression!

The ability to express your thoughts correctly, succinctly and honestly is the ultimate form of Freedom To achieve lucidity and convincing clarity in the style of your essays and other written assignments is not always easy- be you a native speaker of English, or someone who had learned it at school or at home. So why not get friendly and highly confidential advice from an award winning writer, editor and linguist, who is also an experienced teacher?

Royal Literary Fund Fellowship is a unique British institution, created by writers to improve the standards of written English in the society. As an RLF Fellow, I work independently from the College, where I am based Please book an appointment (email: vitali.vitaliev@rlfeducation.org.uk) for a 50 min face to face session at my office at C10 First Court, Magdalene College, where I will be tutoring every Thursday and Friday during term time. Please bring with you two copies of the work you wish to discuss. I very much look forward to meeting you and to helping you out!

Vitali Vitaliev is the author of fifteen books, fiction and non-fiction, written in English and translated into a number of languages, including German, Japanese, Italian and Russian. To learn more, go to Vitali's Amazon.co.uk author's page or to his Wikipedia article: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Vitali_Vitaliev